

MIKE EAGAN

It's not ordinarily funny when the police stop your car and give you a ticket. But Mike Eagan is no ordinary comedian. He perceptively speeds through this and other everyday experiences with radar-gun precision and hilarious results. He tells the most simple stories in the most disarming way. Whether the topic is driving on a crowded highway, sharing a bathroom with his wife or visiting the family at Thanksgiving, Mike finds the humor with a quick and sharp wit. He is so fast you can actually watch the audience trying not to laugh in fear they might miss the next gem.

Mike has more than twenty-five years of stage experience and has made his mark from coast to coast. You can catch him regularly in Las Vegas and Atlantic City. He spent years as the mc/host/creative director of famed New York City hot spots like Catch A Rising Star and Dangerfield's. He has also enjoyed a stellar career in radio where his quick wit and ability to ad-lib earned him the coveted morning show for a number of different stations in the New York metropolitan area.

Mike Eagan's television appearances include Caroline's Comedy Hour (A&E), Evening At The Improv (A&E), and The Valentine's Day Massacre - a pay-per-view special with Andrew "Dice" Clay.